How mature is your penetration testing?

CREST's free Maturity Model Assessment Tools measure the effectiveness of penetration testing programmes

CREST has developed a suite of Maturity Model Assessment Tools that help organisations evaluate their penetration testing programmes and benchmark them against industry standards. Available from the CREST website free of charge, the three spreadsheet-based tools allow an assessment to be made at a summary, intermediate or detailed level.

The CREST penetration testing maturity assessment tools have been developed in conjunction with representatives from a broad range of organisations, including industry bodies, consumer organisations, the UK Government and suppliers of specialist technical security services, to provide a high level of assurance of penetration testing programme effectiveness.

CREST has also recently released the latest version of its 'Guide for running an effective Penetration Testing Programme'. The guide provides practical advice on establishing and managing a penetration testing programme, helping to conduct effective, value-for-money penetration testing as part of a technical security assurance framework. It is designed to enable organisations to prepare for penetration tests, conduct actual tests in a consistent, competent manner and follow up tests effectively.

Training provider meeting

11 September 2017 – 10am- 4pm

BSI Group, Kitemark Court, Davy Avenue, Knowlhill, Milton Keynes, MK5 8PP

CREST would like to extend the training portfolio. This would provide structured training pathways through the different career options. We would like to provide a much wider access to training at different levels- for example, to allow the larger training providers to more easily multiple courses on the list. Currently they do not always list multiple courses because of the cost of assessment.

The meeting will discuss ways that CREST can accredit training courses without charging training providers a significant audit fee but also without dropping standards.

One of the things the meeting will examine is the feasibility of self-evaluation against CREST syllabus areas and the ability for the candidates to provide feedback on their experience. This would create more of a modern trust model and CREST would charge a small registration fee for keeping the information up to date and creating the model. Other potential models may be equally interesting.

This and other options will be discussed and reviewed.

If you would like to attend please email allie@crest-approved.org
